Join us in Nunavut

Dr. Megan Williams loves working in Nunavut.

I chose to start my career as a family physician in Iqaluit after a rotation here as a resident. I was attracted to the opportunity to practice full service family medicine – my work is a mix of primary care clinics, emergency room shifts, prenatal and intrapartum care, and inpatient coverage. I've expanded my clinical skills, learned about Inuit culture and worked with a supportive group of physicians from across the country.

I'll never forget the faces, friends and experiences from my year in the North.
