

Join us in Nunavut

Dr. Vamini Selvanandan loves working in Nunavut.

I came to Iqaluit first as a resident in the Family Medicine Program at the University of Ottawa. The challenge of practicing medicine here along with the collegial atmosphere at the hospital has attracted me here time and again, first as a locum, and now as a residing member of the north.

The close knit sense of community both inside and outside of work has been an unexpected and pleasant aspect of choosing to live here and is really what keeps me here.
